

UPDATE FROM MOEUN CHEAT

My name is Moeun Cheat, and I am honored to share my life journey since being supported by the Savong Foundation. I was granted a scholarship in high school, and thanks to the Foundation's continued support, I was able to attend university from 2016 to 2020. Those years laid the foundation not only for my education, but also for the values of perseverance, responsibility, and giving back.

While studying at university, I began working in sales and marketing for a household goods company. Balancing work and studies was challenging, but it taught me time management, communication, and business fundamentals. After five years of professional experience, I decided to pursue my dream of entrepreneurship.

In 2021, I started an online business with a small shop focused on kitchen supplies. Through hard work, savings, and dedication, that small idea grew. By 2023, I opened my own physical store under the name My Kitchen. The shop now operates two main branches: we sell quality kitchen supplies and also provide customized stainless steel bottles and marketing materials for other businesses.

In 2024, I traveled to China to visit factories and learn firsthand about the bottle customization process. I now partner with a friend who handles the technical aspects while I manage sales and customer service. This venture has expanded our services and helped us reach a wider market.

Today, I'm proud to lead a growing team of five people working in my business they are studying and working ,some working full-time, others part-time, and 1 freelancers.

Thanks to this growth, I've achieved a strong financial foundation and had the privilege of traveling to over 10 countries, sometimes bringing my family along to share in the experiences that were once just dreams. Seeing the world has opened my mind and inspired me to think even bigger for my business and my life.

None of this would have been possible without the Savong Foundation's belief in me from the very beginning. Your support changed my life, and I carry that gratitude in everything I do. I hope my journey shows how impactful your help has been—not only for me, but also for the people I now support and serve.
